

To: Reshkin, Karen[Reshkin.Karen@epa.gov]
From: arcautefrancisco@gmail.com
Sent: Mon 3/31/2014 3:41:00 AM
Subject: Re: BP Action pix = enjoy, F

Feds deploy squeegee

Sent from my iPhone

> On Mar 30, 2014, at 10:07 PM, "Reshkin, Karen" <Reshkin.Karen@epa.gov> wrote:
>
> Thank you - I've got them all posted at <http://www.epa.gov/region5/newsevents/bp-whiting-spill/> with minimal captions. If you've got better captions, that can be sorted out tomorrow.
>
>

From: francisco arcaute [arcautefrancisco@gmail.com]
> Sent: Sunday, March 30, 2014 8:54 PM
> To: Reshkin, Karen
> Subject: Re: BP Action pix = enjoy, F
>
> Action shots Part II
>
>
> On Sun, Mar 30, 2014 at 8:41 PM, Reshkin, Karen <Reshkin.Karen@epa.govmailto:Reshkin.Karen@epa.gov>> wrote:
> It's the zip file. Those get auto removed.
>
>

From: francisco arcaute <arcautefrancisco@gmail.commailto:arcautefrancisco@gmail.com>>
> Sent: Sunday, March 30, 2014 5:22:10 PM
> To: Reshkin, Karen
> Subject: BP Action pix = enjoy, F
>
> PHOTO CAPTION
>
>
> March 30, 2014, Update
>
>
> Its been seven days since the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and the U.S. Coast Guard began overseeing cleanup operations following an oil spill into Lake Michigan that BP reported on March 24.
> Today, thanks to the change in the weather, the Shoreline Cleanup > Assessment Team was able to conduct a submerged oil assessment to determine if any oil from the release sank to the bottom.
>
> In addition, response crews were able to examine the coastline.
>
>
>
ÿ